A sample of talk strategies.

Design	Description	Benefits and Purposes
Report to a Partner 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Each student reports his/her own answer to a peer.</li> <li>The students listen to their partner's response. ("Turn to a partner on your left." "Now turn to a partner on your right.")</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>This allows students to talk to different students in the class and gives each student an opportunity to share and listen to various answers and language structures.</li> <li>Talking one-on-one with a variety of partners gives risk-free fluency practice.</li> </ul>
Three-Way Interview 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Students form pairs.</li> <li>Student A interviews student B about a topic.</li> <li>Partners reverse roles.</li> <li>Student A shares with the class information from student B; then student B shares information from student A.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Interviewing supports language development in question formation.</li> <li>Students participate in speaking and active listening.</li> <li>This ensures participation by all students.</li> </ul>
Numbered Heads 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Students number off within each group.</li> <li>Teacher prompts or gives a directive.</li> <li>Students think individually about the topic.</li> <li>Groups discuss the topic so that any member of the group can report for the group.</li> <li>Teacher calls a number and the student from each group with that number reports for the group.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Group discussion of topics provides each student with language and concept understanding.</li> <li>Random recitation provides an opportunity for evaluation of both individual and group progress.</li> </ul>
Roundtable 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Teacher seats students in small groups around tables.</li> <li>Teacher asks a question with many possible answers.</li> <li>Each student around the table answers the question a different way.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Encouraging elaboration creates appreciation for diversity of opinion and thought.</li> <li>Eliciting multiple answers enhances language fluency.</li> </ul>
Think, Pair, Share 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Students think about a topic suggested by the teacher.</li> <li>Pairs discuss the topic.</li> <li>Teacher strategically chooses certain students to individually share information from their discussion with the class.</li> </ul>	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>The opportunity for self-talk during the individual think time allows for the student to formulate thoughts before speaking.</li> <li>Think time allows students to think about the concepts and the language before producing.</li> <li>Discussion with a partner reduces performance anxiety and enhances understanding.</li> </ul>
